

COBRAY INTERNATIONAL, INC.

The COBRAY TRAINING CENTER offers a ten-day course for survival in today's world. Assassins and kidnappers can strike at any time. Incidents are becoming increasingly common. According to a Conference Board report of November 15, 1979, terrorist actions against corporate victims are showing an alarming upward spiral. Terrorists are turning more and more to corporate victims for two reasons: one is that many Governments have refused to deal with terrorists, thus rendering any ransom demands futile. The second being that corporations usually will negotiate, both because the large number of multi-nationals makes the formation of a credible non-negotiating policy almost impossible, and also companies could face a large civil damage suit if they refused to negotiate for the lives of kidnapped executives or their families.

Many insurance companies are now offering kidnap and ransom policies. This must tell us what is expected in the near future in regard to terrorist actions in the United States and foreign countries.

Our ten-day course offers a series of classes prepared to develop the individuals' confidence and capabilities; to teach one to react effectively during an extreme stress situation. The overall program has been designed to create awareness of all possible incidents, and to give one the ability to control any adverse situation.

The COBRAY TRAINING CENTER, founded by Mitchell Livingston WerBell, III, is staffed by internationally recognized professionals. Our curriculum is flexible and courses can be structured to suit specialized requirements.

Complete confidentiality is provided to all our clients.

Think about us, we are thinking about YOU...

COBRAY INTERNATIONAL, INC.

The COBRAY TRAINING CENTER has prepared a course structure specifically designed for Law Enforcement Agencies and Officers because of the many requests we have recently received. We feel it is important to provide specialized and advanced training to the law enforcement community, particularly at this time of increased dissident and terrorist activity.

Our program begins with a physical fitness and conditioning course. For an officer to function at his best, he must be physically and mentally prepared. We teach advanced arrest techniques, methods which put you in the least jeopardy. The program includes intensive firearms work, including techniques for firing in low-light situations. Our method, Instinct Shooting, was developed by Lucky McDaniel and taught to the United States Armed Forces during the Viet Nam war. It is effective. We will familiarize you with a range of unconventional weapons, those you may face in the course of your duties.

Intelligence is very important at this time. Knowing what may happen may enable you to prevent it. Dealing with dissident and terrorist activities is becoming more a part of everyday police work. A knowledge of this field is essential to your well-being and to the protection of your community. Riot control, barricade and hostage situations are essential areas of knowledge for today's law enforcement officer. Use of the techniques of deterrent and compellent force against dissident action can help you quickly and effectively control a situation.

COBRAY wants to help you prepare, and be prepared, to be an effective and strong law enforcement officer. Our courses are planned for five days; we understand the financial limitations of the current economy for financing training programs. The cost of the course is $1,500. per man. Discounts can be arranged for groups.

The course structure can be altered to your agency's particular needs and interests. We can even arrange to present the course over a period of time rather than a five-day block.

Call us and we will discuss any arrangements that you would like to make. We are here to serve you.
