Yes, there is an ongoing plot to annihilate the Armed Forces of Ibero-America. And, as this book documents, its objective is to eliminate not only the region's military institutions, but also the very nation-states they are charged with defending. In the "New World Order" that the Anglo-American oligarchy is trying to establish, the nations of Ibero-America and the developing sector are condemned to be mere satrapies with "limited sovereignty," subject to looting by the International Monetary Fund and the usurious banks, and to the policies of depopulation and technological apartheid of the great powers.

The methods being used against the armed forces of Ibero-America include hypocritical campaigns supposedly defending human rights, but which in fact only give support to narco-terrorist groups like Peru's Shining Path. At the same time, the U.S. government is demanding that the armies of Ibero-America be "downsized" or, in many cases, completely dismantled.

This demilitarization project became widely known as "the Bush Manual" in 1991, when EIR magazine documented the plot's details, presented by the plotters themselves in a study financed by the U.S. government. This book not only exposes that plot, but also shows how it can be defeated; how to achieve Ibero-American integration, and how to survive without the IMF—a battle plan of urgent importance for all of the developing sector.

The preface is by Argentine Col. Mohamed Alí Seineldín. The introduction is by U.S. economist and former political prisoner Lyndon H. LaRouche, Jr.
